***** A THOUGHT *****

A virtuous woman is a crown to her husband; but she that maketh asham'd is as rottenness in his bones.—Prov. 12:4.

To be man's tender mate was woman born, and in obeying nature she best serves the purpose of heaven.—Schiller.

APATHY OF VOTERS GREATEST MENACE

Our country is seriously imperiled by just one thing—the apathy of enfranchised men and women, and the danger that threatens is greater than the menace of any armed enemy, said Mrs. Maud Wood Park, president of the National League of Women Voters. "Destruction of our commerce, bombardment of our coast cities, invasion of our shores, could in no wise destroy us. Our country is too large, too varied, too rich, ever to be conquered but it can be wrecked from within. It can cease to possess a democratic government, representative of the people's wishes, their ideals, their best interests, and become an autocracy ruled by the vicious or stupid few, and every man or woman who fails to vote this year contributes all that is in his power to such an overthrow of the institutions our forefathers left us."

"Everything's in the hands of the machine, anyway," one woman said. "My vote wouldn't count."

"I call that a coward speech. It is precisely as if a private soldier when the charge is sounded, said, 'Well, the enemy has it all planned to beat us. I couldn't change things. I'm only one person—I'm going to drop my gun and quit.'"

"In our time, we shoot men for acting like that; and while I do not advocate a firing party at sunrise for the slacker voter, I do hope for the day when he—and she—can be made to feel that to fail to vote is to desert in the face of the enemy."

"Nothing is sadder than that we shall make small advances toward good government until we can bring the voter to an understanding of his personal and inescapable responsibility for the conduct of public affairs; until we can see voting not as a mere political privilege, but as a duty no more to be neglected than any other of the duties which belong to honor and a clean conscience, and right living."

"There is no excuse for neglecting to vote. I have heard it said in one place that both tickets are so bad neither deserves support. That is a shallow and ignorant plea, for the men on both tickets cannot be equally undesirable. No party would dare to put a wholly bad ticket in the field. It is clear to thinking minds that to vote for the better man, even if the better does not please us, is infinitely more sensible than not to vote at all. When, as it sometimes happens, one man on a ticket runs far behind his party because voters will not support him, that man seldom comes up for election again. Voting for the best man offered is the surest way to improve the quality of candidates in the next election, and it is the only way."

A voter who has not registered, can not vote. Saturday is the last opportunity to do so before the Nov. Election. One who does not register this year, can not vote in the primary next year.

EASIEST WAY GIVES MORE LEISURE TIME

Makes a camping trip in the "real" way, to make city people appreciate the comforts and conveniences they have at home. Maybe you've had an experience like Rodger Dolan's. Dolan thought the farms were getting too civilized for a real outing from metropolitan life, so he vacationed in the Canadian woods.

"I never appreciated how easily we could get along with nature until I had to chop the firewood for my camp," Dolan writes. "To get enough wood for my cook stove and for the big fireplace in our log cabin at night, I had to saw and split about an hour a day. My time is surely worth $1 an hour, so it cost me $30 a month for fuel—in the summer! It'd be several times that, in winter."

"Another thing: At home, when we have water, we merely turn a faucet. Up north, I had to carry drinking water half a mile from a spring. And our water for cooking and washing had to be carried in buckets up a steep hill from the lake."

"To get our mail, we rowed three miles each way, a round trip consuming a couple of hours."

"Nearly everything else on the 'vacation' required a similar expenditure of time and effort. Luckily, we were able to get ice from a settler's ice house. Maybe you've dug through six feet of sawdust to get ice, carried it to a lake to wash it, then a few hundred yards to the home-made refrigerator."

The city man, used to conveniences and comforts, "raises the roof" if the mail is late, the ice man delayed, or the fuel bill high. The city man forgets that there are plenty of people whose daily life includes the inconveniences and toil of Dolan's "vacation."

Only a few generations ago, nearly every one had these inconveniences. The way has been made easier, more convenient, for the purpose of giving us leisure time. We have it. How do we use it, this leisure time bequeathed to us by a long line of toiling inventors?

LETTER FROM MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON TO MRS. JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

My dear Leslie:
I am hastening to write you a little note to tell you some news that will shock you greatly. Leslie, I think your father is very ill. Yesterday he had some sort of seizure in the office and after he was brought home he lay in a kind of stupor for quite a while.
The doctor seemed very much afraid of a paralytic stroke, although your father still has the use of his limbs and has no trouble in talking, of course we had the best specialists in town and they finally decided it was entirely a nervous trouble that affected him. It has been isolated from every one. Even I am not to be allowed to see him except for about five minutes a day. Just long enough, the doctor said, for me to smile and nod to him and say everything is all right and he is not to worry.
Just as soon as he is able to be moved we are going to take him to a camp in the Adirondacks. One of your father's partners has offered his beautiful place up there.
I will telegraph or telephone you every day. Should have telegraphed yesterday only the doctor said it was foolish for me to do it, as there probably would be no change in him for a few days and I could give you only the bare facts which might worry you needlessly and in a letter I could tell you everything.
Leslie, your father has been working beyond his strength. Ever since the president of the steel mills died your father has taken upon himself his duties as well as his own and it has proved too much for him.

However, today, 24 hours after his seizure, he is perfectly conscious and able to speak, although the doctor has told me that he must not do so. This, of course, we take as great encouragement.

I haven't called Alice, as I do not want her to be worried and of course we can get a cable to her very quickly if necessary.

Don't worry more than you can help and don't try to come, because we have two nurses on the job and you could do nothing that could not be done much better by this trained service, or by my corps of servants, who you know, are all devoted to your father.

I am rather worried about you and Jack, for I see by the paper that Edith's failure and subsequent elopement with Edith Chapman is extremely sensational in its later developments. I am very sorry for your friend Edith, but more than all I am much concerned to know if Jack lost any money through this scandalous person.

Kiss the baby for its grandmother and be sure that I will let you know if there is any change in your father. Your very anxious Mother.

NO. 12—MISTER SCARE CROW'S STORY

Mister Dodger shook his limp straw hand heartily

"Why, you've lost your gun, Mister Scare Crow," cried Nick, as he was taking a walk with Nancy and Mister Dodger through the corn field.

"Oh, no, I haven't," nodded Mister Scare Crow, his white straw mouth curved in a merry smile. "I haven't exactly lost it. I threw it away." And he chuckled so that he shook all over. It was the end of the season and Mister Scare Crow was getting quite old.

"And your tin-pan hat is gone, too," said Nancy, suddenly noticing that he had lost his hat and was bare-headed.

"Too, hee, hee!" chuckled Mister Scare Crow again. "I didn't lose that either. I threw it away, too!"

"Indeed!" cried Mister Dodger. "You're getting quite frivolous in your old age, Cousin Scare-Crow. It isn't everybody who can afford such extravagance."

"Extravagance nothing!" denied Mister Scare Crow suddenly growing sober. "One is never extravagant when he's helping out a friend. And if Farmer Brown can't trust me with a real gun and real bullets, one has to do the best he can."

"Whatever on earth you are talking about!" demanded Mister Dodger. "Please explain yourself."

"That's what you should have said in the first place," remarked Mister Scare Crow amiably, "without jumping at conclusions. I'll tell you all about it. Do you know, Don, the big dog?"

"Yes!" cried the Twins.

"Oh, yes, yes, indeed," echoed Mister Dodger. "He's one of the nicest people in Squeaky-Moo Land."

"Then I think that you'll agree that I did exactly right," said Mister Scare Crow. "Well, Don has a burying place."

"A burying place?" cried all three listeners.

"Yes!" nodded Mister Scare Crow. "For bones. He had to have it a secret, so he buried all his bones right here at my feet. He really has quite a bonnyard and I never told a soul."

"But one day, Tike, Farmer Smith's dog, discovered his secret and started to dig the bones all up."

"I didn't know what to do at first, I was so upset. And then I thought of my gun. I let it drop right on his back as hard as I could. He backed off and ran away, but by 'nd by he came back. So I had to do some more thinking."

"Then my tin-pan hat popped into my head. The very thing! So I shook it off and it not only landed on him but made enough noise for a war. He ran like a streak and I don't think he'll come back this time," chuckled the straw man.

Nick picked up his gun and Nancy got his hat.

Mister Dodger shook his limp straw hand heartily. "You're what I call a real friend," he declared. "I apologize for every word."

THE ILLOGICAL SEX
Men tried to criticize my ways
And say my figure was odd
Because I faced myself in stages
Which bound me tightly.

They once condemned in bitter terms
My lengthy skirts, and spoke with passion
Of how they swept up dirt and germs
In wholesale fashion.

With linen stiff I used to deck
My throat; whereat both fools and scholars
Said I would spoil my swan-like neck
With stand-up collars.

I tossed my armor-plate aside.
And happily I do without it:
Instead of being satisfied,
Men kick about it.

My skirts are short, my limbs are free,
No more I'm tightly choked and Logged.
And promptly all the men agree
That I'm immodest.

"Illogical" they call us? Oh, their inconsistencies refute 'em,
No matter what we do, we know
We cannot suit 'em.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

Chancellor Stresemann is making or premier, but immediately accepted frantic efforts to keep Germany from a reappointment and began forming a new cabinet. His idea appears to have been, not to quit, but to make a fresh start, with a group of ministers he was more in harmony with. Probably he really wanted to make himself dictator, so as to fight the separation movement more vigorously, but this plan was abandoned temporarily. It may be tried later.

The present republican government's surrender to France in the Ruhr, naturally a terrible blow to the people's faith in today's regime, threatens to drive some, at least, of the states into deciding to "go it alone" again.

What France Wants

Indications are that this is what France wants, since she would have little to fear from a group of weak, separate states, compared with a united Germany. However, undoubtedly it would mean indefinitely prolonged confusion in Central Europe, which wouldn't suit the rest of the world. England, especially, would be displeased, for both business and political reasons. In the end it might not be a good thing for France, but she seems to think so.

New German Cabinet

Stresemann resigned as chancellor, where he expects to build in the near future.

Misses Lizzie, Mattie and Mary Florance McLean of Rose Hill were visiting in Ewing Tuesday.

Sherman Brooks of Cumberland Gap was here Saturday. He is a former graduate of L. C. I., and has a large number of friends here.

Two accidents occurred at the ball game Saturday. One when Prof. G. C. Frazier was hit in the eye with a ball, in practice; the other when Olin Stickley, third baseman for L. C. I., sprained his ankle. Both injuries are much improved.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jarvis suffered a dislocated arm while cranking a car a few days ago.

Nearly 60 car-loads of cattle have been shipped from Ewing this season. Most of these have gone west, while a few cars have been sent to Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Comer are moving into their new home in the upper end of town.

Mrs. Robert Overton of Harrogate has as her guest this week her sister, Mrs. Henry Yeary of Morristown.

"VENUS" PROMISES 3 HOURS INTEREST AND LOVELINESS

If the friend's husband asserts he is going to a lodge meeting Friday, October 12th and returns home complaining of a stiff neck, just set it down as a fact that he played hockey and spent an interesting three hours witnessing the exposition of feminine loveliness in Geo. E. Wintz's "Venus" at the Manring Theatre on that date.

What is more, it will be the "Crystal Promenade de Volupte." For those who have grown rusty on their French it may be remarked in plain old United States this means "Glass runaway of the Senses."

A huge walk, built entirely of steel and glass, runs out from the stage over the heads of the audience. The double dozen Wintz beauty contingent romp out upon the structure, which by the very material of its construction lends itself to a most intimate visualization of the personable corymbes. Hence, if Pa thinks he caught cold in his neck just figure it out that he had a seat directly beneath the promenade.

As may be gathered from its Gallic name "Crystal Promenade de Volupte" is an importation from Paris. Mr. Wintz saw it in use at the Folies Regere and immediately arranged to bring it to America. By the arrangements of the lighting effects some of the boldness of the French original has been eliminated.

Nyra Brown and Johnny Getz are the stars of "Venus," and will be supported by many other prominent metropolitan artists. A rare treat is promised.

the ground that he'd violated the constitution, a majority of the members of the House of Representatives tried to meet to impeach him. Walton said he hadn't called a special session, so, at his order, state troops scattered them. Then a selection was held, to change the law so that a session could be held even without the governor's call. The proposition won by a large majority. But Walton denies the election's legality. He has a court injunction to back him.

However, he himself has called a special session now, "for the purpose," he says, "of the enactment of a law to protect the people from masked and lawless marauders"—no special organization mentioned. His idea appears to be to get his own complaint before the house ahead of impeachment proceedings.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

children. He is looked upon today as one of the State's leading lawyers and has always been one of the most active members of the Republican party.

For Secretary of State
Miss Eleanor Hunt Wickliffe was born and reared in Bardonia, Ky., the daughter of the late Capt. John D. Wickliffe, who was a Union veteran and who had been active in the Republican party. She is a granddaughter of Col. J. Wickliffe. Miss Wickliffe was educated in the public schools of Bardonia and taught for five years in the graded schools there and four years in the Louisville schools. At present Miss Wickliffe is connected with the general freight offices of the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis Railroad. She has been an active worker in the Republican party for several years.

For Supt. of Schools
Professor W. L. Jayne, was born at Louisa in Lawrence County, Kentucky, May 12, 1873. The next year his father, a Baptist minister, returned to his old home at Flat Gap in Johnson County, where he established the Enterprise High School. The son was brought up in this school and then attended Georgetown College, where he received the A. B. degree in 1897. Since that time he has been regularly engaged in school work. He taught in the country schools in Rowan, Johnson and Greenup Counties. He then became principal of the Smith Ashland School and was afterward principal of Pollard Graded School for four years, Sandy City School for five years and served a term of four years as County School Superintendent of Boyd County. During this time he was two years president of the State Association of County Superintendents and became active as an institute instructor. After spending a year in Florida, he became head of the Quicksand Schools in Breathitt County. Having served in this position two years, he became a member of the faculty of the Eastern State Normal and perhaps knows the rural schools of Kentucky better than any other man. He believes that in them is our greatest opportunity and at the same time our greatest problem. Professor Jayne has been a Sunday school worker for many years. He is the teacher of the Men's Bible Class in the Richmond Baptist Church of which he is a deacon. His wife was Miss Virgie Hamilton, whose father, John E. Hamilton, was a merchant at Flat Gap in Johnson County.

For State Treasurer
F. Marion McCain, a recognized leader of moral and progressive moves in West Kentucky, and a recognized community builder, was born in Weakley County, Tennessee, June 11, 1860. He moved to Graves County, Kentucky the following year with his parents, and located on a farm near Hickory Grove, Ky. He was educated in the common schools of Graves County, remaining on the farm until the age of 31, devoting part of his time to general merchandising. In the year 1891 he was married to Miss Nellie Cox, of Graves County, and moved to Mayfield in the same year, where he engaged in the grocery business, in which business he continued until January, 1899, when he closed out his business and accepted a position on the road selling a line of agricultural implements, which position he held until August, 1915, when he took charge of his farm eight miles west of Mayfield. Here he remained until May, 1917, at which time he was elected—by the Republicans of the county, but the Democrats as well—to make the race for Sheriff in Graves County, which race he won over the Democratic nominee by 1,915 votes, polling more than 50 per cent of the entire vote in Graves County, and this is the largest Democratic county in the State of Kentucky. Mr. McCain's high moral standing, coupled with his high political prestige, placed him in the position where he was the party's choice without opposition to make the race for Congressman in the First District against Allen W. Barkley. Mr. McCain has been a member of the Methodist Church for forty-one years, during which time he has devoted a large part of his time to the interest of all departments of the church. He is also a member of the Masonic, Odd Fellows and Elks Lodges.

Commissioner of Agriculture
Lewis M. Lebus was born in Cynthia in 1889. He was educated at Bingham School, Ashville, N. C., and at Washington and Lee University. Leaving his studies, he engaged in farming for a time, and then was appointed Postmaster at Cynthia, serving until 1916. He again engaged in farming and livestock breeding, in which field he has been unusually successful, the products of his farm having gained a national reputation. In this work he has formed a wide acquaintance with the farmers of the State. He has served in many important national exhibitions as a judge of livestock. He is a director of the National Hampshire Swine Association and the Kentucky Shortborn Breeders' Association of which he was president for two terms. He is now president of the Kentucky Swine Association. He has served four years as a member of the State Board of Agriculture and the State Livestock Sanitary Board. He grows a large amount of tobacco and is an enthusiastic member of the Burley Growers' Co-operative Association. Mr. Lebus is married and has three children. He is a Methodist.

For State Auditor
James A. Wallace was born in Estill County, Kentucky, August 5, 1867, and has always resided in that county. He is a self-made man and solely through his own efforts has won his way to a position of large influence in his own immediate section and throughout the State. Mr. Wallace has had long experience in financial affairs. He is president of the Farmers Bank & Trust Company of Irvine, Ky., president of the Ocum Refining Company and owns and manages three of the finest farms in Estill County; one large farm in Bourbon County, Kentucky, the Gibson Ranch, in Oklahoma. He is also largely interested in mercantile pursuits. Active in civic affairs, Mr. Wallace was twice elected clerk of the Circuit Court of Estill County, both times overcoming large Democratic majorities. He was the first Republican ever elected to that position in Estill County, and his management of the office was such that he was easily re-elected. As a member of the Republican party he has been a leader in his county. By his leadership he has made Estill a banner Republican county. He was a delegate at large from Kentucky to the Philadelphia National Convention and to the Republican National Convention in Chicago in 1908 from the Tenth Congressional District. He is the present State Treasurer. Mr. Wallace is a member of the Christian Church and has served as a deacon in that church for more than twenty-five years. He is a Mason and a Shriner, and also holds membership in Knights of Pythias and the Juniors. He is married and has two children.

Clerk Court of Appeals
John H. Asher was born March 25, 1890, in Leslie County, the son of Robert Asher, and a grandson of William Asher, who served under General Grant in the Civil War. He attended the common schools of Leslie County and later entered Berea College. # SHIPPERS ADVISORY BOARD FOR R. R.

Cincinnati Headquarters for Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11.—Establishment in Cincinnati of a Regional Advisory Board of Shippers, one of many recently organized throughout the United States, was announced by John A. Morris, manager of the Cincinnati Railway Terminals, who has been appointed manager of the Cincinnati district of this new organization.

The first meeting was set for 10 o'clock this morning.

The Cincinnati district will be composed of Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and the coal-loading section of West Virginia, in which territory raw and manufactured products, agriculture, mining and lumber produce as much or more tonnage than any district yet organized by the American Railway Association.

Association, Mr. Morris said. These Regional Advisory Boards will cooperate with the district managers of the Car Service Division and the American Railway Association. This action is in accord with the program adopted by the meeting of the American Railway Association at New York last April, and subsequently approved by the Association of Railway Executives.

District managers have been located at Chicago, Minneapolis, Toledo, Dallas, Birmingham, Pittsburgh, Omaha, New York and St. Louis.

Mr. Morris outlined the purposes and functions of the organization as follows: To form a common meeting ground between shippers, railroad and carriers for the better mutual understanding of local transportation requirements; to analyze transportation needs and to assist in anticipating car requirements; to study production, markets, distribution and trade channels of the commodities produced in each territory and to promote a more even distribution; to promote car and operating efficiency in connection with maximum loading and in the proper handling of cars by shippers and railroads; to secure a proper understanding by the railroads of the transportation needs of the shippers and their cooperation in carrying out the necessary rules governing car handling and distribution; to acquaint shippers and railroads in each section of the country with the seasonal requirements; to adjust, informally, car difficulties which may arise between carriers and shippers; to give the shipping public a direct voice in the activities of the car service division.

L. M. U. RUMMAGE SALE AT SALVATION ARMY HALL SAT.
A rummage sale of second hand clothing will be held in the Salvation Army Hall Saturday, October 13, by the girls of the Nancy Hanks department of Lincoln Memorial University. The clothing has been collected from various sources and the proceeds from the sale will go toward the equipment of the department. Miss Ada Gray who will have charge of the sale states that as they have a large quantity of clothing on hand and as it is of splendid material, in many cases only slightly worn, the sale will give a good opportunity for many families to secure desirable clothing for their children as well as for themselves.

The work of the Nancy Hanks department of the University has started off well this year under the leadership of Miss Gray, the director, and Miss Mary Large, of the Southern Industrial Education Association.

KIWANIS PRIZE FOR SCHOOLS IS ESTABLISHED

Fifty Dollars to be Set Aside Each Year for Purpose—Announce

All Funds From Park to School in Future

RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF P. M. PARSONS' BROTHER

A motion was passed by the Kiwanis Club today to establish a Kiwanis prize for schools, rules for the award of which shall be left to Supl. J. W. Bradner. The following report on the matter, drawn up by the committee appointed for the purpose, S. P. Martin, C. A. Blackburn, and J. W. Bradner, was adopted:

We, the committee appointed to suggest some means whereby our Kiwanis Club can co-operate with the public schools in stimulating scholarship efficiency, recommend that we give an annual prize of fifty dollars to be known as the Kiwanis Oratorical Prize. This is to be divided as follows: First prize $25 gold watch; second prize, $15 medal; third prize, $10. The rules and regulations governing the award to be made by the superintendent of the schools.

It was announced that all funds collected from the athletic park by the city should go to the Athletic Association of the school in the future. This followed the suggestion in regard to the matter at the meeting last week. Several visitors were present, all of whom made short talks. G. L. Sehon, superintendent of the Kentucky Children's Home in Louisville, spoke particularly complimentary about the Middlesboro Kiwanians, declaring that they were the chief topic of conversation in the state since the convention, and their hospitality, loyalty and civic pride were being praised to the skies.

The following resolutions, on the death of P. M. Parsons' brother, compiled by the committee, Jack Caldwell, R. L. Maddox and J. W. Bradner, were read:

"Whereas God, in his inscrutable wisdom and judgment and suddenly called to his reward, C. M. Parsons' brother of one of our most active and beloved members, Pat Parsons; "Now be it resolved that the club extend to Pat Parsons our heartfelt sympathy in his loss and bereavement and express to him our appreciation of his loyalty, unselfish and efficient work as a member of this club since he first became a member.

"Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be spread on the minutes of the club."

KIWANIS INTERNATIONAL COMMENDS NEWS SPECIAL ISSUE

"This is just a note of appreciation for the fine special edition which you published on the occasion of the Kiwanis district convention, which was recently held in your city. We believe that this will do much to strengthen Kiwanis and around Middlesboro."

The Nymph's Song To Hylas

I know a little garden close
Set thick with lily and red rose,
Where I would wander if I might
From dewy dawn to dewy night,
And have one with me wandering.

And though within it no birds sing,
And though no pillar'd house is there,
And though the apple boughs are bare
Of fruit and blossom, would to God,
Her feet upon the green grass tread,
And I beheld them as before!

There comes a murmur from the shore,
And in the place two fair streams are,
Drawn from the purple hills afar,
Drawn down upon the restless sea;
The hills whose flowers ne'er feel the hee,
The shore no ship has ever seen,
Still beaten by the willows green,
Unto the place for which I cry.

For which I cry both day and night,
For which I let slip all delight,
That maketh me both deaf and blind,
Careless to win, unskilled to find,
And quick to lose what all men seek.

Yet uttering as I am, and weak,
Still have I left a little breath
To seek within the jaws of death
An entrance to that happy place:
Once seen, once kiss'd, once left
From me

Aligh the murmuring of the sea.
—William Norris

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

Macaroni

Macaroni is an excellent starchy food. It is easily digested, very appetizing and cheap. Considering the number of calories per pound as purchased, macaroni is cheaper than bread or potatoes.

Keep in mind that macaroni is a starch, classed under cereals. When serving it plain potatoes should not be included in the meal. The dessert should not be of rice or tapioca and the bread should be wheat or bran.

Macaroni combined with milk and cheese provides the same nourishment as meat and potatoes. By this I do not mean just enough cheese to give a rich flavor but a large amount of cheese comparatively speaking. Cheese is concentrated food somewhat lacking in iron, but rich in lime. The iron can be supplied by a vegetable or cranberries as a sauce.

Macaroni and Cheese I

One cup macaroni broken in inch pieces, 5 cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup chopped cheese, milk and paprika.

The water should be boiling rapidly when the macaroni is added. Add salt and cook 20 minutes or until the macaroni is tender. Drain and dip in cold water. Drain. Put a layer of macaroni in a buttered baking dish, add a layer of cheese. Continue layer for layer until all is used. The last layer should be cheese. Pour over milk to almost cover macaroni. The milk should show through the pieces of macaroni. Sprinkle with paprika and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

Macaroni and Cheese II

One cup broken macaroni, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1-2 cups milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, tiny "pinch" mustard, 2-3 cups chopped cheese.

Cook macaroni in boiling water as in preceding rule. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Mix mustard, salt and pepper, and stir into sauce. Add the cheese and cook until cheese is melted. Add macaroni and mix thoroughly. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. The top can be covered with buttered crumbs or a tablespoon of cheese can be sprinkled over.

There is no more nourishment in the second dish of macaroni than in the first, but the thickened sauce is nicer to serve.

Plain Macaroni

One and one-half cups broken macaroni, 1-2 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and paprika.

Cook macaroni as in first recipe. Put butter, milk and macaroni in a sauce pan, season with salt and pepper and reheated. Stir to prevent sticking. Serve as a substitute for potatoes.

In the following recipe for macaroni, Italian style, the ham is used for flavoring. If you must serve a hot dish at noon time to a large number of people this dish is all that could be desired. So many clubs limit their luncheon menus to three or four dishes that the main dish must be nourishing and a "full meal" in itself.

Macaroni, Italian Style

One cup broken macaroni, 1 cup chopped cheese, 8 mushrooms, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup white sauce, 4 tablespoons minced cold boiled ham.

Cook macaroni as in preceding rules. Put tomatoes through a strainer to remove seeds. Heat and add less than one-eighth teaspoon soda. Stir in white sauce made with two tablespoons butter, one tablespoon flour and one cup milk. Add mushrooms cut in shreds, ham and cheese. Cook over hot water until cheese is melted. Add macaroni and heat until very hot.

This rule will serve six persons. Double all the ingredients to serve 12.

Mashed Potatoes

Four medium-sized potatoes, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, milk.

The secret of perfect mashed potatoes does not lie in the extravagant use of butter or cream but in the cooking and mashing of the potatoes.

Wash potatoes and pare thinly. Cut in uniform size. Drop in boiling water and cook uncovered until potatoes are tender when pierced with a fork. If the outside of the potato breaks and cooks away before potatoes are tender in the center add cold water. This drives the heat to the center of the potato and stops cooking on the outside.

Middlesboro Daily News
